PRESS RELEASE

PPCR site visits continue for beneficiaries of the program.

The Pilot Program for Climate Resilience (PPCR) continues its support for developing countries and regions in building their adaptation and resilience to the impacts of climate change. The PPCR invests in some of the world's most vulnerable countries.

Like other small island states in the Pacific, Samoa is threatened by deadly tsunamis and powerful cyclones, as well as ever increasing sea-level rise.

Samoa is committed to ensuring that the impacts of climate change do not reverse its hard-won development gains, through the installation of water tanks in families who do not have access to clean water.

The site visits continue for the beneficiaries of the program, as conducted in a collaborative effort by the Samoa Umbrella for Non-Governmental Organizations (SUNGO) and the Civil Society Support Programme (CSSP). Village communities in the urban area are the remaining recipients to be visited this week.
